

My Dear Loved Ones:

We are beginning today another week of devotions and a completely different Psalm for us to consider. We have looked at Psalm 46 as well as Psalm 91. We're going to begin Psalm 90 now for our benefit.

God says in Psalm 90:1 - "Lord, You have been our dwelling place in all generations."

He says to us that God is our dwelling place, our sanctuary for protection, stability and for our being sustained. It is also the word for "hiding place" or "Place of refuge." Take notice of these words. We definitely need protection, stability in life, ability to be sustained, and refuges from the storms and trials of life. Moses, the human author of this psalm, says that God is all of this to us. We are pilgrims passing through. Rely upon Him to be just these things to you.

Also it brings out God's characteristics that He is eternal - no matter what generation is going on. Also, this particular Name of God, "Lord," speaks that He is sovereign and the Master of the entire universe; He's in control. He is our Sovereign and our Shelter.

Loved ones, are you running to Him today? I hope that you are. You can trust Him. Moses did.

Praying for you today, my loved ones.
