

My Loved Ones:

Ps 40:5 says, “ Many, O LORD my God, are Your wonderful works / which You have done; / And Your thoughts toward us / Cannot be recounted to You in order; / If I could declare and speak fo them, / They are more than can be numbered.”

There is much that is said about “worship” today among people who call themselves Christians. At heart, worship is giving God his worth. Worship is setting down quietly in God’s presence and trying to recall to God all the countless things we’ve received from Him, and praising, exalting, magnifying, and adoring Him and His Name because of Him.

All of life is filled with God’s handiwork and blessings: creation, skies, seas, our homes, God’s love, and especially redemption in Jesus Christ.

Our past is full of God’s providences; the future is full of God’s promises & plans; and the present is full of God’s Presence and Power (2 Corinthians 12:7-10). We really are in very good hands. He is good, does good and works all things for good; so, we are going to have a good day no matter what.

It’s a pleasant frustration to try to recount all of God’s blessings. This is much like Ps 139:17, 18 - God’s precious thoughts to us cannot be numbered. Mathematics cannot possibly total the wonderful works of God.

Do you appreciate God’s blessings? Are you talking to God and genuinely thanking Him for some. What ones are you genuinely thankful for? Read the following; it’s not what you think!

Count your many blessings!
Name them by the score!
And it will surprise you:
There are millions more.

Praying for you today, my loved ones.
